Kentucky, oh Kentucky,
I love thy classic shades;
Where sit the fairy figures
Of dark-eyed Southern maidens;
Where the mocking birds are singing;
Mid flowers newly born,
Where the corn is full of kernels
And the Colonels full of corn.

SEEING BIG THINGS

Notwithstanding the Old Town Has Been Dry For Over a Week.

Wednesday morning about 5:30 early risers were treated to one of the most beautiful sights ever witnessed around here.

At that hour a cloud that partly covered the skies seemed to part and a large, brilliant meteor burst out and whizzed through the air to the ground, striking somewhere, it seemed, near the ice piers at the foot of Limestone street.

It tall almost reached the full length of the ascent and all who saw it were amazed at the size and intense brilliancy of the visitor.

MRS. BARTLETT ENTERTAINS.

Tuesday afternoon from 2 to 5, Mrs. O. L. Bartlett entertained at her beautiful home on The Point with cards in honor of Mrs. Robert N. Hoeftch, a recent bride, and Miss Mary Evans Strode, the pleasant guest of Mrs. W. Hall Strode. Those who attended reported a most delightful time.

There is an added attraction at the Washington theater tonight. The Camera Man's Pictures. He has been here several days taking pictures of people as they went about their daily routines of life. He may have your picture. Follow the crowd tonight to the Washington theater.

BOY WANTED.

A boy for paper route in West End. See T. J. Currey at The Ledger office between 7 and 8 and 10 and 11 o'clock.

There will be a meeting of the Settlement Club tomorrow afternoon at 2:15 o'clock at the Health League rooms on Court street.

BEAUTIFUL TRIBUTE

Paid a Former Maysville Lady Who Died Last Week in New Jersey.

The Mamaroneck (N. J.) Paragraph contained the following beautiful notice of the death of Mrs. Charles Field Griffin, a former Maysville lady, together with a set of resolutions from the Monday Club:

"Mrs. Charles Field Griffin died Sunday, January 2, at her home on Heathcote Hill, after a lingering illness. She was born in Maysville, Ky., the daughter of Elijah C. and Jane A. Phister, and was married to Mr. Griffin December 28, 1882. She is survived by her husband and one son, Field, now a student at Yale. The funeral was held Tuesday evening at the residence, Rev. Dr. Frank F. German officiating, and the interment was in the Grigen family lot at Rye.

"Mrs. Griffin was genuinely loved and admired by the entire community, and was noted for her untiring devotion to the afflicted or distressed.

"If every one to whom she did some loving service were to bring a blossom to her grave she would sleep tonight beneath a wilderness of flowers."

MAYSVILLE SYRUP CO.

The directors then elected the following officers:

Chicago, January 10.—It is believed among politicians that Progressive leaders who assembled in this city tonight to attend a dinner given by George W. Perkins to the members of the Progressive National Committee, indicated between the lines in their speeches that "if it seems best for the country's good" that they consolidate the forces with the Republican party, it will be done.

THE SHADOW OF ROOSEVELT.

The Democratic press are falling all over themselves in trying to name Roosevelt as the next Republican candidate for President. They go so far as to say his nomination by the Republicans is a strong possibility and urge as the reason that he is the only man who can give President Wilson a "run for his money."

This may be true, and yet it may not be true, as the Republicans have many men who are strong enough to defeat Wilson. It is not the man the Republicans put up who will put the President in the shade, but it is Wilson's "watching and waiting" policy that will elect the G. O. P. man.

Wilson is defeated before he runs—his non-American policies in foreign affairs will put him back in the trenches where he belongs.

There is no need of the Democratic press flashing the shadow of Roosevelt as the only man who can run this country. Evidently they are afraid of Roosevelt.

Roosevelt is welcome to return to the Republican fold, and the party will give him the handshake of friendship, but he must come in as a private and not as the general. The G. O. P. will see to that.

That Roosevelt is still a power in politics, although a private citizen, can not be denied, and the Democrats realize this and in this recognition they seek to throw discord into the harmony that is now existing between the Republicans and Progressives by bringing his shadow to the front as the next Republican candidate for President.

In these days strange things happen, and should Roosevelt become the standard bearer of the Republicans, he will be supported by all the party can give him. AND WILL BE ELECTED.

Here is how the Louisville Times views Roosevelt's candidacy, expressing surprise that the Progressives should support him:

"ANOTHER ARMAGEDDON?

"Twould be a strange spectacle at first blush, that of the fiery Theodore Roosevelt, who has so loudly called upon the administration to sever diplomatic relations with Germany and to plunge into the war on the side of the allies, running for President under the Republican emblem on a pro-German platform, but such a thing may come to pass in the desperate endeavor of the opposition to hit on 'anything to beat Wilson.'

"Prof Munsterberg, in a letter to the Fatherland, already has launched the pro-Teuton presidential boom for the erstwhile Bull Moose leader and, as the New Republic phrases it, he must have felt as if he had been embraced affectionately by one of his own African lions, which he formerly hunted. However, the truth is that the professional pro-German element has been unable to swerve the admirable neutral stand of the Wilson administration and so turns in desperation to align itself behind the bitterest enemy of the party in power. As the New York World says: 'The pro-Germans would have been satisfied with Mr. Wilson if he had warped international law sufficiently to violate neutrality in the interests of the kaiser. They have had justice, but justice is not what they want.'

"Already we have seen symptoms of Wall Street aligning itself with the 'hero' of Armageddon, as witness the recent famous Gary dinner, concerning which even that enthusiastic advocate of publicity, the host himself, refuses inconsistently to talk. Big business has had a square deal from this administration—no intimidations or persecutions—but, like the pro-Germans, it wants privileges, not justice. Keen politicians profess to read in these signs a desire on the part of Wall Street for a return to the old days of Hannibal.

"Tariff adjustment and national defense naturally will be the biggest problems facing the platform committees, even as they now face Congress. As to national defense, Roosevelt's position is well known. 'No man in public life understands the tariff better than Theodore Roosevelt,' declares the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

"Notwithstanding, however, the combination of tolerance and eagerness with which the 'reunited' Republican party has received the Roosevelt presidential boom, and even should the Colonel ultimately receive a unanimous nomination at the hands of the Chicago convention—a calamitous possibility—there most certainly is left in the hearts of the great bulk of American voters enough disinterested patriotism to bring to such a ticket an overwhelming and well-deserved defeat. It is unbelievable that even the Progressives should support the traitor leader, backed by the dollars of Wall Street. It is inconceivable that patriotic citizens will back a man mad to embroil this nation in unnecessary war and who at the same time is aligned with propagandists who would bend our neutrality laws and make this nation a party to deliberate unfriendliness to a European combatant.

"Should Roosevelt become the Republican candidate, we will find ourselves at another Armageddon with the conditions somewhat reversed."

Affer reading the above just glance at the following and see what you think of President Wilson and his policies, as outlined by that great writer, Henry B. Joy. Read it closely. It will help to Americanize you:

"NEUTRAL AMERICA

"Our President has from the first urged upon us to be neutral; to keep our feet on the 'soft pedal'; to say nothing or do nothing which could disturb our relations with other nations with which we are at peace.

"At the time, wise and sane counsel, no doubt. And our people have lived up to it in full measure. I say our people advisedly, meaning to exclude those whose 'hyphens' still attach them to their native or ancestral land.

"Had we not, however, a right to feel that back of such sane counsel was a strong, brave government which would always maintain American honor even to action if necessary for American rights and righteousness between man and man and nation and nation.

"We have remained as a people supinely quiescent under such a series of incidents as have never before irritated the patriotic spirit of any people without being soundly and thoroughly resented and redressed.

"American self-respect is being bartered through the means of high sounding words for the flesh pots of a temporary soft and delightful peace and prosperity which we all so much love when it can be ours righteous.

"Then pen is indeed mightier than the sword, except only when we use our pen and the other fellow uses his sword.

"I have always, until the historical record of the last few years, especially the last eighteen months, been proud of being an American. I had felt that there was no serious blot upon our record as a nation. I had felt that I could travel the world around and be respected as an American by reason of what our generation and those gone before had written into the records of the United States of America, sometimes even with the good red blood of real men.

"Today, however, on what can be based a feeling of pride in being an American, in view of recent history?

"The tragedy of Mexico, incontrovertibly illuminated from the records of George Harvey in the North American Review, is a pitiful picture of American dishonor.

"Yet it is a mere sideshow to the greater dishonor heaped upon us by the records of the European war.

"Do we really want to be a discredited and dishonored nation? Do our people really understand what is being done to them as a whole? Do they know, I ask, that the honor of Americans is being sold for dishonorable quietude?

"Do they know that all this American people has striven for from the days of Washington through the times of Lincoln and McKinley is slipping through our fingers?

"We are not a warlike people. Yet we have never before in history lived under a regime of 'watchful waiting' or been counseled by our leaders to be 'too proud to fight,' no matter what the dishonor.

If ever on earth was a man of peace it was Lincoln. Yet not for a moment did he hesitate to meet a policy of 'blood and iron' like for like. We revere his sainted memory and we also revere the memory of the men who fought against him. We hold in dishonor and disrepect the pacifists of that day as we do and will those of today.

"And now comes the sinking of the Persia. This incident is, however, of no moment. Our disgrace came with the murder of Belgium. We also had signed the Hague Conventions. Our disgrace attaches to the Lusitania and our methods of asserting Americanism. Our disgrace thereafter comes from Washington, D. C.

"Our government has now reached the point of 'indemnity.' What is to be the price of dead Americans and the honor of our country?

"Am I oversensitive in feeling that my self respect as an American is weakened, has shrunken, is declining, is even a thing of the past? Sometimes I wonder at our passiveness under insult. Why is it?

"I was brought up and trained in the idea that it was the duty of the government to protect the rights of even the most unimportant American wherever over the broad world he might roam on business of pleasure.

I was taught to believe it a duty to serve in the militia, to do my share in serving the state and the nation, to stand for national self respect and domestic unity and law and order.

"Today we can not fill the ranks of the state troops. We have advocates of peace—peace at any price—when there is no peace with honor to be had."

Relic of War Days.

(Mt. Sterling Sentinel-Democrat.)

An interesting relic of the days of '62 when America was in the throes of the war demand was brought to this office by our friend, Mr. B. F. Wyatt. The relic is in the form of an issue of the Cincinnati Commercial of the date of February 24, 1862, and was filled with an account of the fall of Fort Donelson. It contains a list of the killed, wounded and missing in the Second Kentucky Regiment of Volunteers of the Confederate States Army, they being among the defenders of the fort. In the list of eighteen killed in this command appears the name of F. Wyatt, brother of Mr. B. F. Wyatt, of this city, who lost his life while assisting in the valiant defense against overwhelming odds.

In another place the paper speaks of the serious illness of Thaddeus, the youngest son of President Lincoln, and the illness of Secretary Stanton.

The farmers are fond of saying that the chief enemies of the bird are city men who make frequent pilgrimages into the fields. But if the birds killed in a year by city men and by farmers were laid side by side, it would probably be found that the rural shooter had by far the heavier score. GOATS' MILK FOR COUGHS.

"Go to the hills and drink goats' milk" was the prescription given by Hippocrates more than 2,000 years ago for coughs, colds and bronchitis, but nowadays, our local druggist, Pecor Drug Company, has a non-secret constitutional remedy just as certain which can be taken right at home. It is Vinol—composed of the healing, medicinal extractives of cod livers, without oil, peptonate of iron for the blood and the nourishing properties of beef peptone. It goes to the seat of the trouble, removes the cough and cures the cold. Vinol is a very reliable preparation.

January 12.

General Joseph Joffre, the military hero of France, recently placed in supreme command of the French armies, is 64 years old today. A great, big, silent man, known as "Pere Joffre," dashes in a racing automobile from one strategic point to another directing the operations along a battle front that Napoleon never dreamed of. Joffre turned the tide of battle that was falling toward Paris in the autumn of 1914. He smashed the great German machine that had been in preparation for forty years to again capture Paris. Back in '08 Joffre was taken prisoner by the Germans when they took Paris. He went back to the military school after the war and has trained himself from that day to this to thwart the designs of France's enemy. He was born at Rivesaltes, in the Pyrenees on January 12, 1852, the third of a family of eleven. He was a brilliant scholar and was the youngest in the school in Paris. He devoted his early school in Paris. He devoted his early army service to constructing the new defenses of Paris and then went with expeditions to Indochina and Formosa. Here he also built fortifications. In 1886 he returned to France and taught the science of fortification at the military academy. At one time he had charge of inventions of war apparatus, and when the war broke out he was a general of brigade and was scarcely known to the French people. He cleared his staff of incompetents, inspired the army with his confidence and skill and then made the entire world take notice by rolling back the German host.

TAFT FOR SUPREME COURT.

Some of President Wilson's ablest advisors have urged him to appoint

William H. Taft to the Supreme Court vacancy resulting from the death of Justice Lamar. It is pointed out that the President could find no able judge and no man whose experience has so well fitted him for service in the highest tribunal in the land. It was Mr.

Taft's earnest desire to go on the Supreme bench during the Roosevelt administration and he did not do so only because he felt that he could better serve the Filipinos by remaining at the head of the War Department. Mr.

Taft's legal decisions handed down when he was a member of the United States Circuit Court, constitute some of the most valuable contributions to American jurisprudence. No prominent Republican has been more considerate of Mr. Wilson, both as a rival candidate for the Presidency and as President. Moreover, Mr. Taft as President exhibited an absolute indifference to partisan considerations in selecting members of the Supreme Court, having made Justice White, a Louisiana Democrat, Chief Justice, and having appointed Messrs. Lamar and Lur-ton, both Democrats, members of the court.

FORD PARTY JUNKETERS SAIL FOR HOME.

PUZZLED

Hard, Sometimes, to Raise Children.

Children's taste is oftentimes more accurate, in selecting the right kind of food to fit the body, than that of adults. Nature works more accurately through the children.

A Brooklyn lady says: "Our little boy had long been troubled with weak digestion. We could never persuade him to take more than one taste of any kind of cereal food. He was a weak little chap and we were puzzled to know what to feed him on.

"One lucky day we tried Grape-Nuts. Well, you never saw a child eat with such a relish, and it did me good to see him. From that on it seemed as though we could almost see him grow. He would eat Grape-Nuts for breakfast and supper, and I think he would have liked the food for dinner.

"The difference in his appearance is something wonderful.

"My husband had never fancied certain foods of any kind, but he became very fond of Grape-Nuts and has been much improved in health since using it.

"We are now a healthy family and naturally believe in Grape-Nuts.

"A friend has two children who were formerly afflicted with rickets. I was satisfied that the disease was caused by lack of proper nourishment. The children showed it. So I urged her to use Grape-Nuts as an experiment and the result was almost magical.

"They continued the food and today both children are as well and strong as any children in this city, and, of course, my friend is a firm believer in Grape-Nuts for she has the evidence before her eyes every day." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

UNITED STATES BUILDING UP ITS RIFLE RANGES.

Washington, January 12.—The meeting today of the board of directors of the National Rifle Association marks the first step in the new movement to bring the rifle ranges of the country under federal control, as one of the fundamental measures for the national defense. It will also be decided whether there will be annual matches during 1916. Sentiment outside the War Department seems to be unanimous for these matches to be held annually, but the department is expected to take the stand that it is impossible to spare the troops for the matches during maneuver years, which comes in 1916. This objection may be met by using national guardsmen to do the work.

Tomorrow the annual meeting of the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice will be held in the office of the assistant secretary of war. There will also be meetings of subcommittees on rules and range construction and legislation, and it is probable that meetings will be held with the military committees of the House and Senate.

Congress is being asked at the present session to provide for a commission to investigate the entire subject of rifle range construction from a national defense standpoint. Such a commission should survey the entire country according to the promotion board, and recommend a permanent national policy of rifle range construction and fix the localities where such ranges should be provided.

The National Rifle Association which is meeting here today, is asking for a national charter at this session, with an annual appropriation of $25,000 from Congress to assist in carrying on the rifle shooting propaganda. It should be done. It is also the intention of the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice to seek, through the Secretary of War, an increase in their annual appropriation from $10,000 to $50,000.

THAT CURTAILED HONEYMOON.

The very general criticism of President Wilson's prolongation of his honeymoon finally penetrated to the section which he and his wife had found at Hot Springs, although not until he had informed the newspaper correspondents that he purposed still further to prolong his absence from the White House. Then, fortunately, from the administration's standpoint, the Persia was sunk, and Mr. Tumulty resorted to his "yellow journal" methods.

That afforded the President his excuse for a change of plans and he announced at Hot Springs that, because of the gravity of the European "crisis," he would hasten back to Washington to handle the situation himself. It is true that President Wilson's desk has been piled high with public matters, many of which have been awaiting his attention for some time, and it was because of his long neglect of these domestic matters that he was being criticised.

But the sinking of the Persia afforded no reason for his return, because Secretary Lansing was handling the situation more ably and more dignifiedly than is the President himself.

There has been on President Wilson's desk for more than four months the court-martial case of an officer who for upwards of a year was under arrest, who was sentenced to dismissal from the army and to imprisonment. Of course, no action could be taken by the War Department until the findings of the court were approved by the President. Mr. Wilson's neglect of the case will now, no doubt, save him the trouble, as the officer in question has broken his arrest and escaped, presumably into Mexico. This is only one of the numerous cases which long ago should have been attended to.

COTTON WORKERS FORM NEW UNION.

Boston, January 12.—At a meeting to be held here tomorrow, representatives of 20,000 cotton workers in New England mill centers will form a new labor union to take the place of the United Textile Workers. Many cotton operatives claim the textile union does not adequately represent them and they say they will form a vigorous, active union that will bring about some vital changes in working conditions and pay.

BRYAN MUST EXPLAIN.

New York, January 12.—William J. Bryan, former Secretary of State, who failed to put in an appearance when he was subpoenaed to court to tell what he knew of the circumstances surrounding the sale of two American battleships to the Greek government, has been given until today to explain to the court why he should not be held in contempt. A libel case was up for trial during the Colonel's recent visit to this city and he was summoned as a witness. One Tantalo was suing a Greek newspaper for libel, and the plaintiff wanted to question the former premier as to whether certain secrets of gun fire control were divulged to officials of the Greek government when the battleships were sold.

SCHMIDT FIGHTS FOR NEW TRIAL

Los Angeles, January 12.—The motion for a new trial for Matthew A. Schmidt, recently convicted of first degree murder as one of the principals with McNamara in the blowing up of the Los Angeles Times building five years ago, will be given a hearing here today. On the allegation that the jurors were permitted to take motor car rides and allowed to dine at home on various occasions, Schmidt holds out hope that the court will grant a rehearing of the case. Backed by many former friends in his fight to clear himself of the dynamite murder charge Schmidt still retains hope that he will be able to escape the term of life imprisonment fixed by the jury.

Schmidt was found guilty on the first ballot by the jurors, it is said, and on the third ballot the term of life imprisonment was fixed. It took the jury just forty-six minutes to decide the fate of Schmidt. The finding of the jury came as a surprise, for the judge's charge was taken as a favorable one toward the accused dynamiter. Another peculiar phase of the trial was the failure of the prosecution to cross examine Schmidt when he was placed on the witness stand in his own defense and denied all connection with the Times disaster.

David Caplan, who was indicted with Schmidt on the same charge of murder, will also appear in court today, and his case will be set for trial at once, should a new trial for Schmidt be refused.

TO STANDARDIZE BAKING POWDER.

Washington, January 12.—Hoping to standardize baking powders so that the health of American people will not be endangered by frauds, a gathering of baking powder experts will meet with the government joint committee on definitions and standards at the Bureau of Chemistry here on Friday.

This committee is undertaking to find out just what constitutes the accepted formulas for foods and drugs in order that some standard may be defined. This is necessary in order that the federal and state officers may be aided in enforcing the food and drug laws.

The weather man has kept on fooling with things until he has got the Ohio river, its tributaries and the people of the Ohio valley in the middle of a very bad fix. With the heavy downpour Tuesday all the way from Dan to Beersheba, the already bankfull Ohio began growing "fuller," and from this distance things look rather serious. If the weather manipulator would only turn on a sure-enough freeze up it would help some.

Five bodies, three women, one man and an infant, were recovered from the wreckage of the Pittsburgh-Charleston packet Kanawha, these being the first of the seventeen or twenty missing which have been recovered since the night of the wreck, except the body of Anna Campbell, a colored chambermaid, which was recovered the morning of the disaster. The bodies were identified as follows: Mrs. W. L. Hoblitzell, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Ulysses Beagle, Hoboken, Pa.; Mrs. E. C. Atkinson, Racine, O.; J. W. Hoblitzell, Jr., Washington, D. C., and W. L. Hoblitzell, aged 5 months. Captain W. E. Roe stated that the search for bodies would be resumed tomorrow, it being his belief that the twelve other passengers and members of the crew unaccounted for, were yet in the wreckage. To prevent the current from carrying the bodies down stream, an improvised net has been stretched in the river just below the wreck.

$80,000 FIRE

Ben Ali Theater At Lexington Suffers Loss of Scenery and Costly Furnishings.

Lexington, Ky., January 11.—Fire, believed to have been caused by defective wiring, damaged the Ben Ali theater to the extent of $80,000 this morning. The fire which broke out in the flies above the stage, was discovered by Ham Brown, advertising manager of the theater, who has apartments on the third floor and who had a narrow escape.

All the scenery, electrical system and stage furnishings were destroyed by the flames, which the fire department by hard work succeeded in confining to the walls of the building. The east wall crumbled and fell upon the boiler room of the Lexington Steam Laundry adjacent, entailing damage to that plane of $5,000, and putting the laundry out of commission.

The burned theater will be out of commission for fully two months.

CHILD LABOR DAY

Proves Popular—Thousands Join In Its Observance.

Child labor day has been observed for the last ten years but January 23, 1916, will be the greatest child labor day of them all, according to a bulletin just issued by the National Child Labor Committee. At least 4,500 promises to observe the day have come into the committee's offices already from school superintendents, teachers, clergymen, women's clubs and other organizations, and more are pouring in every day.

"It is fortunate for us that child labor day falls in January," said Owen R. Lovejoy, general secretary of the National Child Labor Committee, "because it is going to be a big factor in the passage of the federal child labor bill now before Congress. We are asking all who are observing the day to emphasize the need for action in behalf of the bill and the result should be an overwhelming demand for its enactment.

"The bill will not pass the House this year as easily as it did last year because our opponents were not awake then. The only opposition to the bill came from cotton manufacturers and only three of them appeared at the hearings. This year advice from Washington indicates that there is to be concerted action on the part of the cotton mill operators to block the bill and the progress it has already made. This means that we shall need the help of every individual who believes that the bill should be passed because only by convincing the House and the Senate that public opinion is not with the cotton mill lobby can the enactment of the bill be secured. We hope that child labor day will bring us many new friends who will not rest until the Keating-Owen federal child labor bill becomes a bill."

DIDN'T NEED IT.

Rochester, N. Y.—Fearing the government did not provide sufficiently warm clothing for her favorite grandmother serving in the United States Marine Corps, an elderly lady today brought a fleecy, hand-worked comfort to the local recruiting station of the sea soldiers and requested Sergeant George S. Fynmore to forward it to him.

"Poor Fred may be shaking and shivering with cold just like the soldiers in Europe," she told Fynmore. "And this comfort will be just the thing. You'll send it to him, won't you?"

Sergeant Fynmore assured the old grandmother that it would be a privilege and a pleasure to do so. But when he forwarded the package to Port-au-Prince, Haiti, where the grandson is now serving, he enclosed a note explaining that the old lady had worked hard in an endeavor to have the comfort finished in time to come as a Christmas present and that didn't have the heart to disillusion her about the need for such things in Haiti.

"But," he added in the note, just by way of encouragement, "sometimes when you're serving in Alaska I'll get her to send you a cake of ice."
